

Edwards,Michelle

From: Shelley Klingerman [shelley@launchterrehaute.com]
Sent: Wednesday, April 20, 2016 3:28 PM
To: Edwards,Michelle
Subject: Re: Entrepreneurial Innovation Training
Attachments: entrepreneurial innovation training flier--Terre Haute.pdf; ATT00001.htm

FILED

APR 21 2016

CITY CLERK

April 27-28, 2016

Launch Terre Haute

619 Cherry Street, Terre Haute

DAY 1: 9:30 am – 4:00 pm

(Lunch provided)

DAY 2: 9:00 am – Noon

Interested in attending? Contact

Candy Dodd: (765) 285-4111 or cdodd@bsu.edu (seating is limited)

ENTREPRENEURIAL INNOVATION TRAINING

Offered by Ball State University's Indiana Communities Institute in partnership with the Indiana Office of Small Business and Entrepreneurship

Successful organizations use creative problem-solving to innovate, troubleshoot, and explore opportunities on a continuous basis.

Basadur Simplicity® is a simple and proven process to move from defining problems to implementing creative solutions. Ball State University's John H. Schnatter Institute for Entrepreneurship and Free Enterprise has adapted this powerful process to advance entrepreneurial thinking in businesses, non-profit organizations, and public service.

In this train-the-trainer session, participants will:

- Learn about different styles of problem solving
- Explore how your organization can use these styles to maximize performance
- Practice problem-solving skills
- Earn the chance for their entire staff* to complete the Basadur® profile

*some exceptions may apply

Training is provided by the Indiana Communities Institute at Ball State University. The Institute's research-policy-practice framework is designed to address the modern challenges of economic development through community-based strategies for sustainable growth.

INDIANA
Office of Small Business
& Entrepreneurship

Learn more at www.bsu.edu/ici